

LABELLING FOOD IN SOUTH AFRICA

Food products are not legally required to have explanatory text to define date labels. This leaves interpretation up to the consumer. The misunderstanding of these labels is often the cause of further unnecessary waste.

Source: Inspired by a similar representation by the Harvard Food Law and Policy Clinic and Natural Resources Defense Council on US food date labels.